Welcome to HRD5307 Measurement and Evaluation in HRD. I am your instructor, Dr. Greg Wang. I look forward to meeting with you in our virtual classroom. This course is designed to help you with various backgrounds to understand and practice measurement and evaluation (M&E) of learning programs in HRD.

This course is developed in a modular format to assist you in organizing your time and efforts in learning. Each module will describe a particular aspect of E&M and will provide resources for further studies. Each module will specify required reading, writing, and discussion requirements.

Please read through each section of the Syllabus carefully. Please refer back to the information contained in this Syllabus anytime you have a question regarding the basic course information, due dates, or requirements. You may wish to print out the Syllabus for your future references along the learning process.

If you are unfamiliar with accessing the Internet or have questions regarding technical requirements, please look for the links on your learning portal for Technical Support or Canvas 101. In addition, you can access the UT Tyler website for general information and its student services.

Introduction

If this is your first time to take a web-based online course, you will find it dramatically different from your previous experiences. There is no face-to-face contact with your instructor and fellow participants. You may feel you are working alone. You may feel confused and anxious because you can't ask questions and receive immediate feedback.

Relax! You are not alone, and any anxiety you feel will go away as you become familiar with this environment. You may even begin to prefer this environment because of the flexibility that it affords you in managing your time and the learning materials.

I want to stress to both the experienced and inexperienced online learning participants that the key to successful completion of this online course, or any online course, is organization. This syllabus outlines in detail my expectations of you as participant, including required textbooks, grading policies, assignments, and projects, and a schedule of readings and assignment/project due dates. This is not a self-paced course. Deadlines exist because the course is offered within the UT Tyler course schedule and to help you complete the course successfully in a timely manner.

As mentioned earlier, the course has been designed in modules to assist you in organizing your efforts. There are five instructional modules that require you to learn assigned text material, to respond to discussion questions, to prepare assignments, and to complete projects.

Article Critiques

Objectives

This assignment is designed for students' self-directed learning regarding the subject of program evaluation and analysis. Among others, the objectives include

1. Conduct research oriented learning
2. Practice analytical and critical thinking

Assignments

You need to identify a peer-reviewed published paper on the subject of HRD measurement and evaluation and following the requirement below. You may choose any article in the reading list in this course. You are also encouraged to select peer-reviewed articles outside the reading list as long as they are relevant to the topic of this course. (Note: Please do not use articles from general or commercial websites. It has to have a journal title and volume/issue and page numbers.)

Note: If you select Kirkpatrick's work for critiques, you need to include all four articles. They are available in the Canvas learning site under the link of "Syllabus and Required Readings..." above Module 1. Please exclude Swanson's article as it was an editorial article not peer reviewed.

Requirements:

1. Begin the Critiques with a complete bibliographic citation in proper APA style format [Author, (year of publication). Article title. Journal Title, volume (issue), page range]. APA style is established by American Psychological Association for all psychology related fields. For detailed APA requirements, please visit www.apastyle.org.
2. Briefly summarize why the article is important for students in HRD 5307. (e.g., How does it relate to M&E in HRD? Why is it important to enhance our understanding in M&E? How important is the article to the field of HRD?)
3. Summarize the article's content: No more than 2 pages and use your own words to paraphrase. Please avoid copying from the article abstract.
4. Discuss the practical applications (if any) of the article for practitioners. What should they be able to do or to learn regarding M&E after reading the article?
5. Be sure to critique the article, discuss any weaknesses or any occasions when you think the author's theory, model, process or ideas won't work and explain why with literature support. Note that a major portion of your grade will depend on the quality of your critiques.
6. The paper should be at least 6 double-spaced typed pages in length excluding cover page. 20 percent points will be deducted for late submissions (all critiques must be completed to receive a grade for the assignment).
7. You are strongly encouraged to reference additional research articles. Please structure your writing with headings and subheadings.

Final Evaluation Project and Presentation (30%)

Requirements:

- The paper should be at least 12 pages in length, double-spaced with 1” margins on all sides; At least 10 references from related journals and books. Required page length includes references but does not include appendices, e.g., questionnaire surveys.
- This is an independent project for students to show their demonstrated learning.

Objectives

This assignment is intended to develop students’ hand-on experience in learning HRD program evaluation. Among other things, the objectives include

1. Obtaining service learning-based experience
2. Gaining in-depth knowledge on real world evaluation and measurement project
3. Applying models and methods covered in the course
4. Practicing analytical and critical thinking

Assignments

Identify an HRD program in an organization and conduct a program evaluation and measurement project. You may conduct any levels of evaluation per Kirkpatrick’s taxonomy beyond level one. In other words, no reaction level evaluation will be accepted. Ideally, your project report is to be a service for a host organization or a community to improve the effectiveness of a learning related program under evaluation.

The evaluation report should at least include the following:

1. Describe a selected training or HRD program and the organization background. (Answer the question of “what is happening?”)
2. Specify the evaluation question. (Answer the question of “what are you trying to do?”)
3. Discuss the evaluation method. (Answer the question of “What approach is used?”)
4. Explain the data collection process. (Answer the question of “where the data comes from?” and “how the data is collected?”)
5. Describe your analysis and the findings/results. (Answer the question of “how do you analyze the data and what have you found?”)
6. Discuss recommendations to the program based on the evaluation results. (Answer the question of “So what?”)
7. Lessons learned from the project.

You are encouraged to be creative in your evaluation report. However, you must include the above seven components in your final report. The following is a recommended structure for the report:

Program Evaluation Report -- Content Outline Guide

- a. Title page (with a project title and author name)
- b. Table of Content
- c. Brief background on the organization and the program (2-3 pages)
  - Basic information about the organization and the program

- Purpose and/or rationale of the evaluation
  - Evaluation question(s)
  - Stakeholders of the program
  - Audiences of the program evaluation
- d. Evaluation Design (2 -3 pages)
- Evaluation questions
  - Data collection methods and procedures
  - Variables or measures of success
  - Instruments for data collection
  - Sampling procedures
  - Data analysis procedures and statistics
- e. Results (3-5 pages)
- Description of sample
  - Results of data analysis
- f. Discussions, Recommendations, and Implications (1-2 pages)
- g. Appendices if applicable

Final Video Presentation (10%)

You are required to make a video presentation reporting your final project as if you present to your clients. The presentation should be about 8 minutes in length with your image and audible voice. Please upload your video on designated link under Discussion forum, so that your peers can learn from your project.

A friendly reminder: Please start your final project ahead of time considering the 12-week summer semester to learn 16-week's content otherwise. Please do not wait until last minute for the project.

Academic Honesty

Making references to the work of others strengthens your own work by granting you greater authority and by showing that you are part of a discussion located within an intellectual community. When you make references to the ideas of others, it is essential to provide proper attribution and citation. Failing to do so is considered academically dishonest, as is copying or paraphrasing someone else's work. The consequences of such behavior will lead to consequences ranging from failure on an assignment to failure in the course to dismissal from the university. Because the disciplines of the Humanities value collaborative work, you will be encouraged to share ideas and to include the ideas of others in our papers. Please ask if you are in doubt about the use of a citation. Honest mistakes can always be corrected or prevented.

Requirements for All Assignments:

All assignments, unless specified otherwise, must contain a cover page (do not forget to put your name on the cover page), and be double-spaced with page numbers, and margins of 1" on all sides, in either Arial or Times New Roman 12 font size. All references must be consistent with APA style.

Important: Please name all your assignments in the following format: "last name followed by first name initial". For example, wangg.docx.
