Important reminder for students on an F-1 Visa: to remain in compliance with Federal Regulations requirements you must do the following:

1. Traditional face-to-face courses: Attend classes on the regular meeting days/times.
2. Hybrid courses: Attend all face-to-face classes convened by the instructor and meet with the Office of International Programs according to the schedule set for your specific course.
3. Online course: Only one online course can count toward your full-time enrollment. Students are expected to be fully engaged and meet all requirements for the online course.

Course Overview:

In this course, we will practically approach the subject of organizational behavior by integrating common issues managers face when leading individuals and organizational units to achieve organizational objectives. We will rely on cases and illustrative examples of issues managers face in their own organizational settings. In doing so, we will discuss frameworks that are helpful to make sense of these issues and develop strategies to overcome these managerial difficulties. In this course, we will touch on the individual, dyadic and group levels of analysis, primarily focusing on organizational contexts.

Course Outcomes

1. Emphasize the critical thinking skills used in decision making and interpersonal communication in a wide range of organizations (profit, nonprofit and governmental)
2. Develop an understanding of the theories, principles, terminology, and concepts associated with individual, dyadic and group behavior within an organizational context
3. Utilize analytical and integration skills when applying knowledge real workplace context to enhance individual and organizational effectiveness in a complex global economy
4. Develop an understanding of leadership theories and application skills
5. Encourage self-reflection and adaptability regarding your role as a practitioner
6. Identify problematic groups of people in organization and understand their impact in organizations

Method of Instruction:

The key to succeeding in this course will center on your ability to be self-directed in navigating your modules each week. In the modules, I will try to have a variety of content from different sources including peer-reviewed management and organization research articles, lecture videos, discussion board conversations, and complementary links to various websites, book excerpts, and videos as they relate to the main topic of focus in each module. I try to include such relevant content, readings, videos, and illustrative examples to best serve each student's preferred learning style.

Prerequisites for Course:

1. You must have a bachelor's degree.
2. If we end up having assignments to complete, Microsoft Office Suite® and Adobe PDF Reader are the official software packages for this class. You will not be able to send me assignments in Pages®, Word Perfect®, or linked to Google Docs® or Google Sheets®.
3. You will also need access to a Windows or Apple compatible PC / Tablet / Smartphone connected to an electrical source and the Internet. Additional requirements include a screen, web cam, microphone, keyboard, mouse, speakers, printer, and video software. Most computers less than five years old have the necessary software to engage in this class.
4. It is vital that you have reliable internet access. This is important because this is an online course delivered through Canvas, a learning management system that requires internet to access. Canvas is where you will be required to complete activities every week. Important announcements and correspondence will also take place in this course through Canvas. You are responsible for monitoring announcements and emails in the online learning management system. It is recommended that you engage in Canvas through Google Chrome, Firefox, or Safari.

<hr/>
Total Grade	100%

Graded Components:

Getting Acquainted

You will find your first post in a discussion board form to get acquainted with each other. Please log into your group and introduce you self in terms of background, experience and who you are as a person. Technically, this is not a graded component, but it will help you extend your network and it will help this course feel more personalized.

Discussion Board

There are a total of five discussion board entries (Module 4, 6, 7, 12 and 14) for this course which will account for 20% of your overall grade. To earn credit for the discussion board you are required to complete your initial response to the discussion question by Thursday at 11:59 p.m., followed by a response to two other group member’s post by the end of Sunday at 11:59 p.m.
