Students will describe, explain, discuss, and competently apply the use of assessment methods in counseling, including individual appraisal and diagnosis of emotional and psychological disorders in accordance with standards from the Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs and the State of Texas.

SLO 7.0 Assessment and Testing

Students will demonstrate knowledge and skills to competently apply the use of assessment in counseling including the diagnosis of mental and emotional disorders

Proficiencies for Counselors

Proficiencies that counselors-in-training must master are derived from two sources: the Council for the Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP), and the State of Texas, including the Texas Administrative Code (TAC) and Texas Education Code (TEC).

Required Texts and Readings

Whiston, S. C. (2017). Principles and applications of assessment in counseling (5th ed.). Belmont, CA: Brooks/Cole.

American Psychological Association. (2020). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association: The official guide to APA style (7th ed.). ISBN: 9781433832161

* In addition to the required texts, extra readings will be assigned throughout the semester. These readings will be available on CANVAS.

 A student at UT Tyler is not under any obligation to purchase a textbook from a university-affiliated bookstore. The same textbook may also be available from an independent retailer, including an online retailer.

Methods of Instruction

This class will consist of a collaborative learning community in which all participants share responsibility for the learning process. The instructor will facilitate learning by lecture, guiding students to sources of knowledge, and promoting independent development and discovery of new knowledge. Instructional methods for this course include lecture, discussion, student presentations, individual practice, group practice, exams, and report writing. The course materials will be housed on CANVAS.

As your instructor, I assume the responsibility for structuring both didactic and applied learning opportunities and for providing some of the conditions that allow or encourage your growth as a counselor in training. The degree to which you perceive this experience as enhancing your personal and professional growth will largely be a function of your own goals for this experience and the responsibility and initiative you assume for implementing your choice of goals. I look forward to our time together this semester and I hope you will look back on it as a truly valuable experience in your development as a counseling professional.

Course Assignments

Participation and Professionalism (25 points)

Learning is a dynamic social process. In-class exercises are designed to provide practice and be a review of the material that will be covered in readings and in class. They include a number of opportunities for the assessment of self and classmates. Active participation is required to gain practice with assessment and skills related to assessments reviewed in class.

Participation in discussion and class activities is an important component of learning. Active, meaningful engagement with your peers is expected. Texting, web surfing, and other activities which preclude the ability to be fully present with the class are strongly discouraged. Please be on time, and complete reading assignments by their due date. Students who are consistently late at the beginning of class will have points deducted from their participation grade.

Professionalism represents a way of being made up of appearance, manner, communication, interacting, attitudes, approach, skills, and openness to grow. As part of this class, students are expected to demonstrate professionalism during in person and online interactions with their peers and the instructor.

You are expected to be fully engaged in the topic of assessment, invested in your own learning and the learning of others, and eager to participate. Concretely, active participation and professionalism means:

- Reading required materials and being prepared to work
- Demonstrating knowledge of reading assignment material
- Actively taking part in class activities
- Interacting well with peers

- Showing respect and courtesy toward peers and instructor
- Exhibiting a professional demeanor
- Actively engaging in learning opportunities
- Demonstrating critical thinking
- Exhibiting growth in content knowledge and skills
- Contributing to a professional climate

Quizzes (2.5 points each)

This class will include 11 quizzes. Each quiz will cover the required readings for that week and will be due before class time (Monday 5:00pm). Quizzes will include multiple choice and/or true and false questions. The lowest quiz grade will be excluded for each student.

Instrument Critique Presentation (25 points)

Locating an appropriate instrument is an important part of the assessment process. Each student will complete an oral presentation reviewing one test designed to measure one of the following constructs/topic areas: intelligence and general ability, achievement and aptitude, assessment in career discernment, personality, behavioral assessment, marriage and family related issues, and diagnosis. Groups will be formed based on student interest in topics. Topic selection and group forming process will be completed early in the semester.

As a group you will choose two instruments that are assessing your topic and submit the selection in CANVAS under Instrument Selection section. The instrument reviewed should pertain to your specific training emphasis, clinical mental health counseling. Sources for information should include the Mental Measurement Yearbook, Tests in Print, or the official test manual from the assessment's publisher. Be sure follow APA 7 guidelines closely when citing sources, using direct quotes, and listing your references.

The class presentation is expected to last between 30 and 45 minutes. As part of your PowerPoint presentation, you are expected to follow the outline below and prepare one page handout highlighting your findings:

Course and Departmental Policies

Diversity

Case studies and other examples inherent in this course will approach counseling from a cultural perspective. This course examines many sensitive areas. Because our student population is very diverse, sensitivity to gender/race/age/ethnicity/ability/sexuality is expected and disrespectful language and/or behavior will not be tolerated.

Attendance

While it is strongly recommended that you do not miss any classes, you are permitted to miss one class (2.5 hours) with no penalty. If you are going to miss a class, it is expected that you will notify the professor ahead of time. This is part of professional behavior and will prepare you for holding a job as a counselor. After the first excused missed class, along with missing participation and professionalism points, for each missed class students will lose additional 5 points from their overall grade. All absences must be discussed with the instructor prior to the class missed. Students must come to class on time. It is disruptive to your instructor and peers to come late. A pattern of tardiness will be treated as an absence and begin to negatively impact your grade. You must see your clients on time when you work as a counselor, as such this will be good practice for you.

Late Work

All assignments are due according to the timeline established by the syllabus unless otherwise noted by the instructor. Considering the adult learner needs and possible hardship throughout the semester, written assignments will be accepted up to three days late. The maximum number of points awarded will decrease by ten percent for each day that the assignment is late. Assignment will not be accepted after the third day and student will receive a zero for the missed assignment. In any case of late submission, students are responsible to inform the instructor ahead of time as part of professional behavior.

Informed Consent Statement for Counseling Courses

Faculty members are dedicated to the educational, personal, and professional growth and development of our students. Faculty members are in a unique position as both instructors who assess students' academic skills and members of the counseling profession with an ethical obligation to the profession. In both of these roles, it is the faculty's responsibility to evaluate student competencies within the realm of professional counseling and to address any concerns regarding students' professional competence. As such please be aware of the following information regarding this course:

- The counseling profession encourages that counselors fully integrate their own personal attributes and identity, as well as their strengths and weaknesses, into therapeutic processes. Therefore, self-awareness is critical because this knowledge relates to being an effective therapist.
- There will be an emphasis in many courses on self-awareness/exploration, as well as giving feedback to peers. Although uncomfortable at times, we encourage students to be open to self-exploration, since we frequently ask clients to do so.
- At times, class may include experiential and self-awareness exercises. It is important to distinguish between sharing one's emotional reactions to such experiential class activities and revealing information about one's personal history. Self-disclosure of personal history is not required in order to successfully pass any course; however, students may be expected to share their reactions to experiential activities.
- Self-disclosures will not be used as a basis for grading in any course. However, should a student disclose information indicating impairment or the potential for harm to clients, the faculty member may take appropriate action in accordance with the ACA Code of Ethics (2014).
- Students often experience personal growth as they progress through the program. However, the courses are not meant to be a means of personal therapy. The focus in classes is on self-awareness and the enhancement and growth of necessary counselor skills.
- Please be aware that, although all instructors strive to create a safe environment for any personal disclosures, we cannot guarantee that other students will maintain the confidentiality of any such disclosures that are made.
- It is each student's responsibility to determine an appropriate level of self-disclosure (i.e. the content and depth of personal information that you share) in experiential learning activities.

Psychology and Counseling Retention Policy

Faculty, training staff, supervisors, and administrators of the Psychology and Counseling graduate programs at the University of Texas at Tyler have a professional, ethical, and potentially legal obligation to: (a) establish criteria and methods through which aspects of competence other than, and in addition to, a student-trainee's knowledge or skills may be assessed (including, but not limited to, emotional stability and well-being, interpersonal skills, professional development, and personal fitness for practice); and, (b) ensure, insofar as possible, that the student-trainees who complete our programs are competent to manage future relationships (e.g., client, collegial, professional, public, scholarly, supervisory, teaching) in an effective and appropriate manner. Because of this commitment, and within the parameters of our administrative authority, our faculty, training staff, supervisors, and administrators strive not to advance, recommend, or graduate students or trainees with demonstrable problems (e.g., cognitive, emotional, psychological, interpersonal, technical, and ethical) that may interfere with professional competence to other programs, the profession, employers, or the public at large.

As such, within a developmental framework, and with due regard for the inherent power difference between students and faculty, students and trainees should know that the faculty, training staff, and supervisors of our programs will evaluate their competence in areas other than, and in addition to, coursework, seminars, scholarship, or related program requirements. These evaluative areas include, but are not limited to, demonstration of sufficient: (a) interpersonal and professional competence (e.g., the ways in which student trainees relate to clients, peers, faculty, allied professionals, the public, and individuals from diverse backgrounds or histories); (b) self-awareness, self-reflection, and self-evaluation (e.g., knowledge of the content and potential impact of one's own beliefs and values on clients, peers, faculty, allied professionals, the public, and individuals from diverse backgrounds or histories); (c) openness to processes of supervision (e.g., the ability and willingness to explore issues that either interfere with the appropriate provision of care or impede professional development or functioning); and (d) resolution of issues or problems that interfere with professional development or functioning in a satisfactory manner (e.g., by responding constructively to feedback from supervisors or program faculty; by the successful completion of remediation plans; by participating in personal counseling/therapy in order to resolve issues or problems). [Adapted from the Comprehensive Evaluation of Student-Trainee Competence in Professional Psychology Programs statement developed by the Student Competence Task Force of the APA Council of Chairs of Training Councils (CCTC), (<http://www.apa.org/ed/graduate/cctc.html>), approved March 25, 2004. (2012-

2014 Graduate Catalog)

Evaluating Student Fitness and Performance

Members of the faculty, using professional judgment, continuously evaluate each student's fitness and performance. Students receive information related to their fitness and performance from faculty members, their advisors, and their supervisors. The criteria used by the faculty to make such judgments include instructor's observations of course performance, evaluations of students' performances in simulated practice situations, supervisors' evaluations of students' performances in practice situations, and the disciplines' codes of ethics. Students are formally evaluated at least annually by the program faculty.

Detailed information about procedures for student evaluations, progress review, retention, and for addressing concerns about student progress are available at the department website: <http://www.uttyler.edu/psychology/>.

Students who are not making satisfactory progress or who are not meeting program standards should consider withdrawing from the program. In this context, the term "unsatisfactory progress in the program" refers to an academic judgment made regarding the student's fitness and performance. It is a determination that the student has failed to meet academic and/or professional standards.

Other

Students are strongly encouraged to read The University of Texas at Tyler's Graduate Catalog especially regarding issues such as academic grievance, plagiarism and cheating, etc. The policies stipulated in the catalog will be strictly enforced.

Grade Replacement/Forgiveness and Census Date Policies

Students repeating a course for grade forgiveness (grade replacement) must file a Grade Replacement Contract with the Enrollment Services Center (ADM 230) on or before the Census Date of the semester in which the course will be repeated. Grade Replacement Contracts are available in the Enrollment Services Center or at <http://www.uttyler.edu/registrar>. Each semester's Census Date can be found on the Contract itself, on the Academic Calendar, or in the information pamphlets published each semester by the Office

Failure to file a Grade Replacement Contract will result in both the original and repeated grade being used to calculate your overall grade point average. Undergraduates are eligible to exercise grade replacement for only three course repeats during their career at UT Tyler; graduates are eligible for two grade replacements. Full policy details are printed on each Grade Replacement Contract.

The Census Date is the deadline for many forms and enrollment actions of which students need to be aware. These include:

- Submitting Grade Replacement Contracts, Transient Forms, requests to withhold directory information, approvals for taking courses as Audit, Pass/Fail, or Credit/No Credit.
- Receiving 100% refunds for partial withdrawals. (There is no refund for these after the Census Date.)

State-Mandated Course Drop Policy

Texas law prohibits a student who began college for the first time in Fall 2007 or thereafter from dropping more than six courses during their entire undergraduate career. This includes courses dropped at another 2-year or 4-year Texas public college or university. For purposes of this rule, a dropped course is any course that is dropped after the census date (See the Academic Calendar for the specific date.)

Exceptions to the 6-drop rule may be found in the catalog. Petitions for exemptions must be submitted to the Enrollment Services Center and must be accompanied by documentation of the extenuating circumstance. Please contact the Enrollment Services Center if you have any questions.
